UX/UI designer

Product designer

I am an interaction designer from Venice, Italy and currently live in Brooklyn, NY where I design user experiences for screens. I'm passionate about projects that are collaborations between people and user-generated content. Collaboration through the web is what made me fall in love with the internet in the first place.

I'm constantly prototyping. But even when I'm throwing together an impromptu hackathon in my living room, I care a lot about going deep into the details and finding the right way to publish and present work.

EXPERIENCE

Bluecore

06/2016- present

Senior Product designer

Bluecore is a Retail Marketing Platform that specializes in email. Hundreds of brands and retailers use Bluecore to drive increased revenue with less effort by connecting customers to products they'll love.

SumAll

10/2014 - 04/2016

Senior Product designer

SumAll is a democratic analytics tool that allows users to view all of their data across platforms, in one simple, easy-to-use visualization. Understanding and shaping that data in order to create an intelligible result for users was my first task at SumAll. <http://francescofraioli.i/sumall.html>
